

Sounds Like Love

When Sam Blake walks into The Quarter Note, the bar that Megan McGuire and her father own, they are in desperate need of an entertainer. Sams statement that Ive been told Im a pretty good guitar player is an understatement. Hes not only good, hes soon drawing in customers and changing their financial situation. Hes also enticing Megan in ways she doesnt understand. She doesnt want to get involved a man who will take off any day. She doesnt want to get involved with any musician. After all, she made that mistake once, and as much as she loves her ten-year-old son, shes older and wiser now. Or is she?
